Tradename Database

One of the most important requests to plastics information systems is to identify a material, of which only the tradename is known. This is not only important for the classical plastic resins, but also for additives, fillers, composites and other material classes, which have not been covered by the Material Data Center so far. To close this gap, we have developed a new module in cooperation with Carl Hanser

Publishers, Munich, which offers tradename information. The database includes thousands of relevant tradenames, each with reference about the producer, the material family and a description of the material. Also links to the producer's website are available. The tradename database is free for all registered users of Material Data Center.
